参考范文:

Dear Jack,

On behalf of my class, I am honored to invite you to attend the evening party in celebration of our school's 60th anniversary, which falls on Sunday, Dec.25.

As scheduled, the party is due to start at 8pm, and end at 10pm, lasting about 2 hours. All guests are supposed to come into the new school hall and take their seats 10 minutes earlier. Your seat is No.8, Row 5. At the evening party, a great school achievement video will go first, and then some songs, dances, poem recitation created by teachers and students will go on, showing our great talents.

Looking forward to your arrival and having a good time.

Yours,
Li Hua

英语听力原文

Text 1

M: What are you up to this weekend? Anything interesting?

W: Well, I'm dying to watch the new Marvel movie, but I'll have to see if there's time. I have a huge essay to write for school, and we'll be away visiting my grandmother all day on Sunday.

Text 2

M: Well, this isn't the right place! I'm so sorry to interrupt your lecture... I'm looking for the chemistry laboratory.

The woman at the front desk said the chemistry class was up here.

W: That's the room at the end of the hall.

M: Thank you.

Text 3

M: Sorry, do you mind if I shelter here with you until it stops?

W: No problem! I should have brought my umbrella with me this morning!

M: Well, there wasn't a cloud in the sky when I left home! Hopefully the sun will come out again soon.

Text 4

M: Rick was smart to leave the company. Apparently, they're going to be getting rid of 60 people over the next few months.

W: Yeah, Lisa told me the news. But most of the losses will be from sales and marketing, so our jobs should be safe.

Text 5

M: Have you been with the theater group long, Bella?

W: Only a few months, but it's really improved my confidence! I'm finding it so much easier to talk to people and make friends. I don't think I'll ever be brave enough to give performances on the stage, though!

Text 6

M: So, what do you think of the place?

W: It's nice. The kitchen is great, and I love the big windows in the living room... you get so much natural light! But it's still only a one-bedroom.

M: Yeah, it probably won't suit us long-term. But we're not going to be having kids for a while yet, and this place would be great in the meantime.

W: You're right. It's a lovely neighborhood and the price is right. Let's find the agent and give them our offer.

M: Okay, great! I couldn't face going round any more apartments today!

Text 7

W: Now it's time for our "Relationship Doctor" section, where I help our listeners with their problems. Today, I'm talking to Nick from New Jersey. Hi, Nick... what's up?

M: Hi... I'm calling because my daughter is about to leave for college in California, and I'm finding it really difficult.

W: What makes you feel that way?

M: Well, I'll miss her, of course. But really... it just seems so far away. I'm used to being there to help my kids when they need me, and now that won't be possible. I can't afford to fly to California all the time!

Text 8

M: So, Laura... tell me about yourself.

W: Well, I graduated college with a first-class business degree back in 2018, and I've been working in sales ever since, mostly in fast-moving consumer goods.

M: Right.

W: I've got years of sales experience, which has given me a deep understanding of customers and customer relationships. I feel that makes me highly qualified for this role.

M: Great! And what particularly attracted you to the product manager job?

W: Well, I've always been interested in business strategy, and I believe I could really add value to the company with my ideas. But the main thing is that I'm ready for more responsibility. I want to lead my own team.

M: Okay, great. And what would you say is your greatest professional weakness?

W: Knowing when to stop! I'm so passionate about my work that it's sometimes difficult for me to switch off and make time for my personal life.

Text 9

W: How does it feel to have won a lifetime achievement award for your music, Jack?

M: Honestly, I still can't quite believe it! It feels like only yesterday that I picked up my first guitar. I couldn't have imagined back then how far I would come.

W: Were you always musical as a child?

M: Not really. Not when I was very young, anyway. I was more into books and reading. I wasn't great with people, and I didn't have huge amounts of confidence. I could never have imagined performing in public.

W: So, what changed?

M: I spent the summer with my aunt and uncle in New York. My uncle worked as a sound engineer at a small record company in the city. One day, my aunt had to take my cousin to a hospital appointment, so he took me into work with him. He sat me in the green room while they were working. I was just sitting there, watching TV when suddenly, these amazing rock stars walked in for their break!

W: Wow!

M: The band were so kind to me, and the guitarist taught me to play a few simple tunes. I loved it so much that Uncle John took me to work several more times during that summer. After that, I was addicted. I begged my parents for a guitar, and it just took off from there.

Text 10

M: Hi, everyone. My name is Ben, and I will be your instructor for this evening. My background is in Chinese medicine, but I can also teach you some basic defense skills. Since all of you have signed up for our free introductory class today, I am just going to show you a few basic techniques — they all include using your hands, knees, and feet. If you feel at any point that you are out of breath, dizzy, or tired, please take a break. It is important that everyone works out at their own pace, and only does what they are able to. If you decide at the end to sign up for our full six-class program, our workouts will gradually get harder. This should improve your strength and give you more confidence in your abilities. Before every workout, it's important to exercise your muscles. We'll do that for five minutes, and run for another five after that. Then we are going to do some boxing, kneeling, and kicking for ten minutes each in that order. Last, we will play a couple games to improve your strength. If you would like to sign up for more classes, they are $25 per class, or $150 for the six.
